

Amy Coombe (Speaker) leads the accounting and finance team at Branagh Development, a premier infill and custom development and construction company in the East San Francisco Bay. Branagh Development's portfolio includes multi-family housing, mini-storage, commercial properties, and single-family homes in urban and suburban areas of the Bay Area. Amy works closely with the development and construction teams to project financial results and provide transparency to banks and investors. Her team maintains the daily books and records of over forty companies with projects in all phases, including development, construction, and stabilization. Amy has over 11 years of public accounting experience where she advised clients as part of Deloitte Tax LLP's transaction services group. Amy earned her Bachelors of Science in Accounting from Boston College and her Masters in Taxation from Arizona State University. Amy is a licensed Certified Public Accountant in California and Colorado.
